INTRODUCTION

Please read this guide prior to using FAADS.

This guide contains a detailed description of the Federal Assistance Award Data System (FAADS). In addition to the technical information on format, Internet availability and access, we have included important information on program coverage, system limitations, a description of each of the data elements in the record layout and other user precautions. The record layout remains unchanged since the revision at the beginning of Fiscal Year 1998 to make FAADS year 2000 compliant.

The Bureau of the Census serves as the executive agent responsible for operating FAADS. The Office of Management and Budget provides policy oversight. We invite your feedback and suggestions for improving FAADS. If you have any questions or comments, please contact the Federal Programs Branch at the address and telephone number listed below.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

Background

The Federal Assistance Award Data System (FAADS) is authorized by Title 31, Section 6102(a), United States Code. The first FAADS report was issued in February 1981, covering assistance award actions during the first quarter of Federal fiscal year 1981 (October 1 to December 31, 1980).

FAADS is a central collection of selected, computer-based data on Federal financial assistance award transactions, compiled quarterly. Each standard record is identified as being one of two possible types: county aggregate or action-by-action. Each action-by-action record contains such items as the name and location codes for the recipient (but not the address), the amount of awarded or amended Federal assistance (usually on the basis of the obligated amount), the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance program under which the award was made, and a project description. For some programs, primarily transfer payments to individuals and large volume loan programs for individual home ownership, data in the record are presented as aggregate amounts for all recipients in each county area. Such aggregate records do not contain all the data elements specified in the standardized format. The record format, which begins on page 11, indicates which items are available in each type of record.

Coverage

Thirty-three departments and agencies of the executive branch of the Federal Government with grant making authority are now reporting to FAADS. Some of them are small agencies that report only once a year, due to the limited number of assistance awards. Appendix A lists selected agencies providing data to FAADS. The list also includes some additional Federal agencies not yet reporting, but which are anticipated to start reporting in the near future. Many of them are very small entities that make only a very limited number of scholarship and fellowship awards to researchers and students working on advanced degrees.

Reporting covers approximately 600 Federal assistance programs. While primarily concerned with assistance to State and local governments, all major programs providing transfer payments to individuals, discretionary project grants, loans, or insurance are also covered. The long-term objective is to include in FAADS all Federal financial assistance programs. This includes all assistance programs listed in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) as well as financial assistance awards made by Federal agencies but not included in the CFDA.

Relationship to Other Systems/Processes

Various sections of the United States Code require Federal agencies to provide fiscal, budgetary, and program-related information to State and local governments and to the Congress. FAADS assists Federal agencies in complying with applicable sections of the Code, and promotes the government's effort to provide access to information on Federal assistance activities. Other related efforts include the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA), and the Federal Assistance Programs Retrieval System (FAPRS). The Budget Information for States (BIS) report, no longer currently published, previously was a part of this effort.

The CFDA and its automated companion, FAPRS, present a summary of Federal domestic assistance programs available from Federal executive branch agencies. In addition to program description and other information, the CFDA provides data on Federal funding for past and current budget years.

The BIS reports estimates of potential State allocations of Federal formula grant funds from Federal executive branch agencies for the then current fiscal year, as well as the prior fiscal year and the proposed fiscal year. These annual reports may be of interest for data of prior fiscal years, but are no longer published.

The Consolidated Federal Funds Report publishes data on Federal Government expenditures on a geographic basis. These annual reports are developed from existing data sources, including FAADS, within the Federal Government. Coverage includes grants and payments to State and local governments, salaries and wages of Federal employees, Federal Government procurement awards, and direct Federal payments for individuals.

Executive Order 12372 outlines the Federal Government's system of consultation with the States on applications for grants, direct development, and other forms of financial assistance. The States, in consultation with their local governments, design their own process of review for applications of Federal financial assistance, and determine which programs are subject to review. The FAADS helps the States in this review process through the inclusion of the State Application Identifier (SAI) number in field two in the FAADS records. The SAI number is assigned by State review agencies during the grant application process. However, not every agency incorporates the SAI number into the internal data file(s) used to generate the records submitted for FAADS processing.

Users need to be aware of the commonalities and differences among the various reports mentioned above. While each report serves a specific purpose, knowledge about the relationships among the reports, the President's budget, and the funds made available through Congressional enactment of appropriations plays a vital part in understanding the nature of the allocation and distribution of Federal funds. Due to differences in definitions or reporting bases (such as obligations vs. expenditures, or fiscal year vs. calendar year vs. program year), users are cautioned that amounts appearing in one report may not match amounts found in other reports.

System Limitations

FAADS is a quarterly compilation of Federal assistance actions. No summation, consolidation, or other linkage with previous or future quarterly data is provided to users. Because each quarterly report stands on its own, it is necessary for users to refer to previous and future quarterly data to obtain a complete picture of assistance actions. The series of FAADS data files provides a basic data source for analysis of Federal assistance awards by those who wish to apply their own data evaluation programming. FAADS is not a "database" to be queried. It is a sequential text file that can only be "read" by a custom-written computer program. All prior FAADS files, including those originally produced and maintained on mainframe computer tapes, now are stored on CD-ROM's in ASCII text format. To obtain historic data, contact the Federal Programs Branch (See page 1). All FAADS data files since the beginning of FY 1996 have been posted to the Internet at the Census Bureau's web address, http://www.census.gov.

FAADS is not an accounting system. The funds reported in FAADS may differ from those reported in various accounting or finance systems. Some differences are due to agency reporting practices, while others result from differences in effective reporting dates or interpretations of definitions and requirements.

Reporting in FAADS is based on the geographic location of the initial recipient. This may be different from the location of the funded project and could also be different from the location of secondary recipients or the prime beneficiaries. Information on project location has been provided for each transaction record since 1983.

Another caution is that funding amounts for loan guarantees, insurance, and other forms of contingent liabilities do not in all cases represent an actual flow of Federal funds. The user needs to understand the type of financial assistance (e.g., grant, cooperative agreement, direct loan) provided by a specific Federal award so that the amount of Federal funding reported is not misinterpreted.

DATA AVAILABILITY

Data are submitted quarterly by the Federal agencies. These data are then compiled on a government-wide basis for OMB by its executive agent, the Bureau of the Census. Agency submissions are due within 30 days after the end of the quarter. Submissions that fail to meet the reporting deadline are not integrated into FAADS until the following quarter.

FAADS data for the most recent quarter and the most recently completed fiscal year are available at the Bureau of the Census' web site, www.census.gov. Anyone wanting access to historic FAADS data beyond those data files available on the Internet, should contact the Federal Programs Branch at the address and telephone number listed on page 1. Users of FAADS data for fiscal years prior to 1998 are reminded that the record layout is different from the one shown in this manual. Interested users should consult Appendix C for a cross-walk between both the "old" and the "new" record layout. FAADS data files for Fiscal Year 1998 and subsequent years are in compliance with the requirements of the Year 2000 directives and mandates, in that all dates have been extended to contain four digits to identify the year.

U.S. Congress

Complete data files are provided quarterly to the U.S. Congress. The servicing agencies are:

House Information Resources
Ford House Office Building
Sixth Floor
Vashington, DC 20515-6165
Vashington, DC 20510-7202

Congressional members or their staff can obtain FAADS information directly from these servicing agencies or through the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. If additional information is needed, congressional staff should directly contact the Federal Programs Branch for assistance (see page 1).

The general public cannot obtain access to the FAADS information through servicing agencies of the U.S. Congress.

Federal Agencies

Many Federal agencies have found uses for the FAADS quarterly files, or some variation thereof. Inquiries should be made directly to the Bureau of the Census, Governments Division, Federal Programs Branch (see page 1).

State and Territorial Governments

Complete data files are provided to the State and Territorial governments. Each State or Territory can request the data file in electronic form. FAADS files for FY 2004 have been distributed to the states and territories in spreadsheet formal via email messages. At their request, files can be sent to such recipients on CD-ROM or they can be downloaded from the Census website. Each State and Territory is encouraged to share the FAADS information with its political subdivisions and the general public.

General Public

The general public can obtain FAADS files, on a fee basis, for fiscal years prior to 1996 on CD-ROM from:

Administrative and Customer Services Division (ACSD) Customer Liaison Office

Bureau of the Census Telephone: (301) 763-2495

Washington, DC 20233-1900

National Archives and Records Administration (NARA)

Electronic & Special Media Records Division

National Archives at College Park Telephone: (301) 837-0470

College Park, MD 20740-6001

FAADS data files for fiscal years 1983 through 2003 and the latest completed quarter of FY 2004 are available, and data files for future quarters will be available, on a fee basis on CD-ROM from the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) [see above address and telephone number]. The data files available from NARA and the Census Bureau's Customer Liaison Office (see address and telephone number listed above), are "national" in scope and contents. Data files for individual states or territories are not available (except on the World Wide Web – see below). Users must obtain the "national" quarterly file and separate out records for individual geo-political entities.

The data files for Fiscal Years 1996-2003 and the latest completed quarter of the current fiscal year also are accessible by the public from the world wide web home page of the Governments Division of the Census Bureau. The site address is:

http://www.census.gov/govs/www/faads.html

Users have the option of downloading the entire quarterly file or subfiles for individual states and territories. Special requests, such as partial FAADS files, cannot be accommodated. Users, however, should contact the Federal Programs Branch (see page 1) for further information.

Selected data files are also available on NARA's Access to Archival Databases (AAD) system: http://aad.archives.gov/aad/title_list.jsp. Select "Federal Aid" in the Subject scroll-down box.

DATA CHARACTERISTICS

Record Contents

There are two types of FAADS records: action-by-action and county aggregate. Both types use the same record format containing 34 data element fields. Action-by-action records usually contain data in each field, except where the submitting agency was unable to provide those data. County aggregate records, on the other hand, will not contain data in all fields, since data for numerous individual actions are summarized into one record. Examples include activities such as entitlement payments made directly for individuals, or other large volume transactions, such as housing loans and flood insurance. When these transactions are aggregated at the county level, not all data elements are additive. Therefore, some data fields are blank. County aggregate records normally contain data in up to 20 fields; but some variance may occur because of differing agency practices. The FAADS record format, which follows, contains asterisks (*) for fields that do not apply to county aggregate reporting.

The records have been sorted alphabetically by state, followed by the territories. Within each state or territory the type 1 records, (county aggregate) appear before the type 2 records (action-by-action). Within these groupings, the records are sorted by Federal agency, CFDA program number, county and city name (action by action records only). All sorts are in alphanumeric ascending order, except Record Type, which is in descending order.

The output files sent to States contain data that pertain only to the receiving State. A complete data file covering all States and Territories can be purchased from the National Archives and Records Administration or the Bureau of the Census, or downloaded from the Census Bureau's web site. All files are compressed and must be decompressed by the user.

Users with questions about processing quarterly FAADS files should contact the Federal Programs Branch (see page 1).

The record layout, including field descriptions, begins on page 11. For users of FAADS files for fiscal years prior to 1998, a cross-walk of the character positions of each data field, is also included in Appendix C of this Users' Guide.

FAADS DATA QUALITY

Edit Checks

The Bureau of the Census performs a series of edit checks to try to ensure input requirements are met and data in certain fields are valid. There are edit checks for nearly every data element. All input records of each Federal agency's FAADS submission are edited. Information about the edit specifications is available upon request.

Federal Agency Compliance

FAADS is dependent upon data supplied by Federal departments and agencies. Since agency operations are established primarily to meet their internal requirements, some agencies are not capable of reporting all requested data. Agencies were requested to submit waiver applications to OMB when specific reporting provisions could not be met. A summary of Federal agency compliance accompanies each FAADS report to assist the user in interpreting the data.
